NUMBER 20.

A Former Norway Merchant.

Many Norway people, who know M. M. Pinney when he was in the dry goods business in Norway, in the store now occupied by E. C. Winslow, corner of Main and Cottage, will be pleased to read of his California home as seen by visitors. "We arrived at Redlands, to us the prettiest city in all California. We were met by our old friends, Mr. and Mrs. M. Pinney, and started for a carriage drive of four miles through the orange groves. If you like pretty things in nature, go with me in imagination on this carriage drive. "Imagine a valley, nearly level, surrounded entirely by lofty mountains, one to the north and another to the south, covered with snow. At this time of day (3:30 p. m.) a purple haze is appearing along the summits of the lesser mountains, which also impart a little of its tinge to the snow-capped peaks. All around you on every side are orange groves laden with the ripe fruit, all ready to be picked. Now then, think of the dark rich green of these thick foliated orange trees, in contrast with the brilliant color of the ripened fruit and over it all, this purple sheen thrown as a mighty veil over everything from dome to pit. "There may be prettier scenes somewhere in this world but I never expect to see anything better in nature than this on this quiet afternoon. "The Thief. "The Thief" was the attraction at the Opera House Saturday evening, and while the gallery was well filled, the body of the house contained many empty seats. The play is one of unusual merit and well deserved a full house. The acting was especially fine and even the most difficult parts were presented in a masterly style. The entire play is a study of character and presented in a realistic manner, various temptations to which man has fallen. "Markie", the leading lady, (Lucille Spenser) through devotion for her husband and the fear of losing his affection allowed herself to steal enormous sums for dress and finery. Richard, (J. A. Heenan) her husband, is a kind devoted husband unsuspecting any evil in his wife, is at last thrown into despair at discovering the stolen money in her possession, and a succession of falsehoods and complications were then discovered. The begs forgiveness and entreats him to say nothing regarding it, but to save her, and after a long struggle he yields. The theft is attached to the owner's son, Ferand, and he is prevailed upon through the cunning of Marise, to confess the theft, and he, having fallen desperately in love with her, is perfectly willing to offer himself to shield her from the law. Finally, at the last moment as Ferand is to be sent away to a foreign country, and realizing the boy's situation and his faithfulness, Marise confesses the theft and frees the young man from his assumed guilt.

Meeting of the Norway Fish and Game Association.

The annual meeting of the Norway Fish and Game Association was held in Engine House, Elah, Tuesday evening, for the purpose of hearing the reports and election of officers for the ensuing year. The treasurer's report shows that there is $38.83 in the treasury. It appeared from the records that there had been received a-d distributed in Lake Penneesseewassee and its tributaries 40,000 fry and 6,000 fingerlings, 20,000 having been recovered from the United States Government and the balance from the State commissioners. It appears besides this that the association has accomplished the screening of the lake at its outlet, posted signs by the closed waters throughout the town and locality, and have been instrumental in creating a healthy sentiment not only for the propagation, but also for the protection of the fish in this locality. It was also voted that the persons who had subscribed $1.00 or more for the "screening fund" should be given one year's membership dues and become members of the association if they so desired. The association is alive and in fine shape, and will do all in its power for the betterment of the fishing possibilities in this locality. The officers elected were:—President, A. J. Stearns; vice president, John O. Shepard; secretary and treasurer, I. W. Waite. Base Ball Game. The base ball game between Norway High and Bates 2d, which is spoken of in the report of the ball game on page 6, has been changed and will take place Saturday, May 27 instead of Wednesday, May 24. Eight pans of trout have recently been put into the brooks and tributaries of Hobbs Pond and Lake Penneesseewassee. The trout came from East Auburn, and H. L. Cushman carried them to their destinations. Freehand Howe left Saturday, on his annual fishing trip to Upper Dam. Mr. Howe is stopping at the Upper Dam House as has been his custom for many years. He is the veteran fisherman there. He intends to be there a month or more. Clara Louise Hathaway gave a most interesting talk to the Y. F. C. U. last Sunday evening on her travels through the south this winter. There was a good number present, and those who did not attend the meeting missed a rare treat. The bridge at Cummings Mill which went to the spring in the center of the brook has been washed away and leaves one remaining plank. The entrance has been boarded up, and the only means of reaching the old spring is by a single plank from the sawdust heap. The Browning Reading club met Monday evening with Mrs. Eva Kimball. The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. F. Bicknell, and will be devoted to magazine readings. This will be next to the last meeting, and the last one will be with the president, Mrs. H. L. Libby. Haskell, District Deputy, South Paris. Nathan Tompkins stand, Winter St., Norway, to Algenora Crooker for occupancy.

VOLUME XLII.

The Rosary.

The Rosary at the Norway Opera House, Wednesday evening, had been talked about more than any play that had come to our village. It was not only because we had read about the play as presented in the cities, but because many had read the book with the same title, The Rosary. They tried to connect the pictures on the paper displayed with the book and the press notices with the book and the play and the book are entirely different. The only likeness is that both are founded on the words of the song:—"The hours I spent with thee, dear heart, are as a string of pearls to me. I count them over, every one apart—My Rosary, my Rosary. I feel each bead unto the end And there a cross is hung. Oh, memories that bless and burn; Oh, hallowed gain and hallowed loss; I kiss each bead and strive at last to learn To kiss the cross, sweetheart, to kiss the cross."

The company carried their special scenery and each member was well adapted in looks and every way to the character. The little personal characteristics were shaded to a nicety. It is a grand play, but a play that poor actors could easily make a farce. Brian Kelly, the priest, was the favorite actor, and he had a noble part that ranged through the gamut of human emotions from the sublime to the sublime faith. In all phases of life he was a sure friend and counselor. Father Kelly was a human man and he understood the case of the lovely Lee Martip and Kathleen O'Connor as well as the graver sorrows of Bruce Wilton and his wife, or the villain, Kenward Wright.

The story of the play is that Bruce Wilton, a young man had come into possession of a large fortune, and he and his beautiful wife enjoyed a happy home surrounded by friends. Into this home comes the serpent in the form of a friend, who was in love with Vera Wilton, Bruce's lovely wife. He causes Wilton to exchange all of his happiness through jealousy. Mrs. Wilton had a deeply christian character, but the husband had no part in things spiritual, and it required bitter trials to bring him into rest and peace. There were lighter views of comedy scattered through the tragedy. Lesura Valikin, the maid from Hellows Falls, Vt., could not see a joke and her density kept her in the dark of the laughter when contrasted with the jokes attempted, told to make her laugh by her future lover, who flattered her in love when he finally succeeded in making her laugh. Then there was the Irish girl Kathleen, Father Kelly's niece, who would not marry the rich young Charles Harrow. Finally, at the last moment as Ferand is to be sent away to a foreign country, and realizing the boy's situation and his faithfulness, Marise confesses the theft and frees the young man from his assumed guilt.

Fire in the Pine Woods.

A fire was discovered Friday morning about 10 o'clock in the "Pine Woods" so called, about two miles north of South Paris and about a mile west of Paris Hill and burned over between one and two hundred acres. The selectmen immediately investigated after hearing of the fire, returned to the village and called out a force to fight it. C. B. Cummings & Sons of Norway, who own a large tract of land in that vicinity, sent a crew. Men came from Paris Hill and in a short time a large force was at work. About noon a general alarm was given in the village and more started for the fire until over a hundred were at work fighting it. By half-past two it was checked in all directions and men remained to watch so to prevent its starting again. The fire ran from the river through the woods into the lower fields of some of the Paris Hill farms. The place where the fire started was a small off about 15 years ago. A large part of the territory that was burned was of large growth and some of it hard wood, while other portions were of large pine growth. The land which was burned over belonged to W. H. Cummings of Paris Hill, C. B. Cummings & Sons of Norway, Fannie Hammond of Paris Hill and Kimball C. Atwood of New York. It is not known how the fire started.

The tenth annual meeting of the Horsehoers' Association was held in Engine House Hall, Wednesday, May 17. The meeting was opened by Bro. Robert Patterson, called Bro. Sam Record to preside at the meeting, who in well chosen words welcomed the brothers from Portland, also the traveling men who were in the audience from different concerns. There were short speeches by the traveling men and members until noon, when the meeting adjourned until 1:30. A bountiful dinner was served by the ladies of the Good Cheer society in Good Cheer Hall. The meeting was called to order at 1:30 by the president. At this meeting there was no speaker from away engaged, but a lot of good talent was found among those present, especially among the brothers from Portland and the traveling men. An invitation was extended the Oxford Local Association to meet with the Local in Portland, which was accepted. There being no further business to come before the meeting it was voted to adjourn.

The Knights of Pythias will observe Memorial, next Sunday. Memorial services at Riverside cemetery will be held at two o'clock, followed by services at the Universalist church, where the annual sermon will be given by Rev. C. G. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gooch and W. H. Doten took an auto trip to Portland last Sunday, going by way of Walnut Hill, Cumberland and Falmouth, returning by way of Yarmouth. While at Walnut Hill, Mr. Doten visited his early home and found many reminiscences of childhood days. The 26th anniversary will be observed by the South Paris Baptist church, Friday evening, May 19th, at 8:30. An anniversary supper will be served, to which the members of the church and congregation have been invited. A special program will be given during the evening, with an address and special music. There will be the usual roll-call service. Churches at Paris Hill, and Norway will be taken to meet the necessary expenses. Mrs. Arabella DeCoster, wife of Percy O. DeCoster, died May 8th at her home in Lynn, Mass., after a long illness. She was 45 years of age. She is survived by a brother, James B. GOOD WORK Done Daily in Norway. Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Norway still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

O. car I. Pitts, Cottage street, Norway, Me., says: "Several years ago I began to suffer from an acute attack of kidney trouble. I had caught a severe cold which settled on my kidneys and brought on terrible pains in the small of my back. There seemed to be a congestion of my kidneys and it was only with great difficulty that I was able to pass the secretions. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and decided to try them. I procured a box from Stone's Drug Store. They helped me from the first and after taking the contents of a few boxes, I was cured. I have not had any trouble from my kidneys since. I am glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

My Old New England Hills.

As I watch the golden sunset slowly sinking in the west When the burdened day is ended and the birds have gone to rest Once again my thoughts go roaming to the woodland hills of my old New England hills.

Western breezes cool my forehead, western breezes fan my hair. But with all these soft caresses, cannot draw me from the hills of my old New England hills.

And as I close my eyelids, this fair vision comes to me; Can see as in my childhood, the dear old elm tree; And as children as we played in the cool and respite shade. By its green branches made.

And the wild birds in the branches sing their song so loud and shrill. That the notes seemed to echo, through the old New England hills.

Once again from the pasture, Where the fragrant breezes blow, I spy the first blue violet peeping from the clover sward.

And I linger by the brookside to where the robins sing. Oh! this place of earth is brighter than New England in the spring.

As I grew up like a wild flower in the tall New England grass. To be cut down and withered, and kept struggling to the last; But I have not lost my purpose; let our restless hearts be still.

As we listen to the echo from my old New England hills. In my dreams I hear the ripple of the pond close to the mill. And my dear old mother waiting for her wanderer still;

But I have not lost my purpose; let our restless hearts be still. And hear the birds sing again, among the old New England hills.

The Hills of Maine.

O hills of Maine, fair hills of Maine, Thy tumbling waters raise the strain And with their silver tones prolong The haunting echoes of my song. O hills of Maine, cool hills of Maine, O'er the fertile valley plain Thy lofty crests with scaling pine Invite the weary to recline.

O hills of Maine, dear hills of Maine, When shall I tread thy paths again? Once more a child with streaming locks To frolic o'er thy jagged rocks. And from a gray hair with scaling pine Invite the weary to recline.

O hills of Maine, dear hills of Maine, Thy tumbling waters raise the strain And with their silver tones prolong The haunting echoes of my song.

Marriage Proposals.

Here is a collection of marriage proposals typical of different nationalities: A Russian—"My dear, my little dove, soul of my soul, I love you with my whole heart, with my whole being. I love you madly. I will love you unto death, and should troubles befall us, my love will conquer everything. Be mine, Oh, Natasha!"

A Frenchman—"You are divine, ideal. Today I will press my suit before your parents, and my, my fair, you will become my wife."

An Englishman—"I am about to start on a long voyage and I shall be lonely. I wonder if you would care to marry me and let us make this journey together?"

A German—"Fraulein, you are a noble woman. You have read and understood my book. I cannot tell you how much I admire and esteem you. May I dare to offer you my hand?"

An Italian—"Clara, Clara, you are fairer than the blushing dawn. Your voice is more melodious than the soft wind. Oh, let me kiss those dark locks of yours and let those heavenly eyes not spurn me, for otherwise, I must die. Live with me, my Clara!"

A Montenegrin—"You are a handsome and a good girl. If you will marry me I will out off two Turks' heads and lay them at your feet."

What is that of the United States?

A BUGLE'S AWFUL DEED may not paralyze a home so completely as a mother's long illness. But Dr. King's New Life Pills are a splendid remedy for women. "They gave me wonderful benefit in constipation and female trouble," wrote Mrs. M. C. Dunlap, of Leadville, Tenn. If ailing, try them. 25c at The Noyes Drug Store. 18-21

Our Feathered Friends.

The Bluebird's Color.

The friendship between the robin and the bluebird is accounted for in a legend. When the robin, filled with pity for the suffering Lord, bore him drops of water as he hung upon the cross a little brown bird thought:

"Oh, I too love Him! Why can I not do something to ease His pain?" So she made a cup out of a leaf, and, filling it with water, met the robin and gave to him that he would not have to fly so far as he returned for more of the cooling liquid. And when at last he came with the news that his Lord was dead she bathed his bleeding breast that was wounded by cruel thorns.

Then the master of the birds said to the little brown bird:—"Because you loved the Lord and would have helped Him you shall henceforth wear a coat the color of the one His mother wore."

"And that is why this little brown bird has ever since been a little blue bird and is never far away from the robin when he comes in the spring. This will be something to think of when a bit of blue flies between you and the sun and you know Our Lady's bird has come."

The Gnatcatcher's Nest.

Of course we can all understand that the little gnatcatcher likes a warm snug nest, but why she should build it so very deep and narrow is a little hard to see. It is not that she is afraid. It must be very uncomfortable for her to sit there day after day with her tail cocked up high on one side and her sharp little bill just sticking out above the other edge. She seems to like it though, and when you go to look at her she is so well satisfied with the situation that if you want to see her pretty speckled eggs you will probably have to pull that long tail gently unless you have shaken the nest very unnecessarily hard in climbing it.

This nest was about forty feet up in a big oak tree which the very highest winds could not rick to any extent, so the deep cup shape of her little dwelling was not for fear of the eggs being shaken out.

Now this particular nest I found when it was just begun. The birds didn't mind me a bit but came right up with their mouths full of building stuff and actually sang with their mouths full—a feat which did not seem possible. Of course I thought I was a recognized acquaintance and when I pulled Mrs. Gnatcatcher's long tail just to hint that I would like to take a peep at her house treasures she got real rowdy. If she had been big enough I would have been well thrashed, so I cut my visit very short.

The Surgeon Bird.

Two birds were building a nest under a study window. A gentleman sat in that study every day. He watched the birds. They were building the nest of clay. They brought round bits of wet clay in their bills. They stuck these bits upon the wall.

After they had worked busily for a while, would perch on a tree nearby. They would sit and look at the nest. Some times they would fly down and tear away all that they had built. Sometimes, a part of the nest would fall down. Then the birds would sit and think how to build it better.

Right in the middle of their work an accident happened. One of the birds stepped on a piece of broken glass. It cut her foot very badly.

But Mrs. Bird was a brave little body. She wished to keep on with her work. She did keep on until she was faint and sick, and could not get up from the ground. Then she lay down. She closed her eyes. She looked very sick.

The other bird looked at her anxiously. Then he turned around and gave three loud, strange cries. Soon, several birds came flying about to see what was the matter.

A little surgeon bird came with them. He looked liked the others, but he soon showed that he was a surgeon. He brought a bit of wet clay in his bill. He ground it, fine with his own little beak. Then he spread it on the bird's sore, stiff foot, just as a surgeon spreads a plaster. Next, he took in his bill a long green cornstalk which lay near. He flew up on a tin water-pipe under the window. One end of the cornstalk was near the same bird. She understood what to do. She took hold of it with her bill, and helped herself up on the water-pipe, too. Then the surgeon bird helped her into the half built nest.

Poor Mrs. Bird! It was very hard to be sick, and to move into a half built house.

What do you suppose the little surgeon did next? He went to work and helped Mr. Bird finish the nest, then he flew off home.

Could the gentleman in the study have been kinder or wiser than that little bird?

And also to stop that bald spot from growing larger; to stop itching scalp and falling hair, or money back. Parisian Sage will drive every particle of dandruff from your scalp, because it penetrates into the scalp and kills the dandruff germs which are the cause of all hair diseases.

It is a most beneficial hair dressing and hair beautifier, not sticky or greasy, and is used by women of refinement the country over. Large bottle 50 cents, and hair grower I ever need. It is a grand dandruff cure and scalp cleaner, and also cures itching scalp. Mrs. Lotie Davis, R. F. D. No. 7, Flint, Mich., June 20, 1910. 18 & 20

The First Feeding of Chicks.

When a chick is first hatched it is about as soft and mushy a piece of animal life as can be imagined. Its bones and flesh are merely a bag to hold the yolk of the egg from which it came. This yolk is inclosed whole in the chick's interior and furnishes the necessary food for the first few days. It doesn't need any other food, indeed other food is likely to do it harm. And until this yolk has been entirely consumed and assimilated by the chick's system, it is better that it have nothing to eat.

These few days when the yolk is being digested should be a time of preparation for the time when the chicks will need other food. For this purpose there is one thing absolutely essential and that is sand. Put a newly hatched chick into the sand and before it can run it will be found picking at the coarse grains of sand and small pebbles. This is not due to hunger, for it is not hungry; but it is its instinct to prepare its grinding apparatus and get it in working order.

Some breeders prefer keeping all water away from all newly hatched chicks, believing it produces bowel derangement; but this is very doubtful. Many breeders allow the chicks water from the start, putting it before them along with sand and small gravel as soon as they are hatched. We like this plan best. They will drink very little water, some of them refusing it entirely, so that it can do them no harm. Placed on a sandy floor or in a sandy box, before them for a couple of days and then a light feed has always started them off lively and strong for us and given them the go that they need.

When there are so many excellent prepared chick feeds on the market, sold at small cost, it is a user's trouble to prepare food for young chicks. These chicks can be bought in the neighborhood of two cents a pound and as the chicks consume very little of the feed it is a trifling matter, unless you raise a great many chicks. In this event, you will find them so satisfactory that you will be sure to use one. Besides the commercial chick feeds are dry and composed of small grains which do not spoil if the boxes should overlook some of the feed. Indeed, it is all the better to mix some of it in the sand in which the chicks are fed, and in this way the youngsters will learn to scratch for them. And exercise is the life of anything.

If you can't get a good chick feed, then raw oatmeal will be found excellent. Sometimes your grocer will have a lot in which the outer husk has been removed. This is the best to use, as it is the most digestible. If you have it this is unsalable he will let you have it for a trifle. The chicks relish it greatly, and as there is no husk on it, it will answer well.

Stale bread crumbs, where you have only a few chicks, are as good as anything. They contain a little salt which is an advantage, and if they are dry enough to crumble when rolled in your hands they can be fed that way. If they are too dry, a little water poured over them—not much, but just enough to moisten them—is all right. Dip them once in water and set them aside till the moisture penetrates through a d through. This isn't so good as feeding it dry, but it will do.

Don't feed raw dough or rough mash such as you feed larger chicks. Raw dough sours in the crop and brings on all sorts of bowel troubles. If you want to feed this stuff, cook it well beforehand. Well meals through and through—not just a hard crust on the outside and the middle a soggy, wet mash; this is as bad as feeding it raw.

Chicks will do well for a while on a grain ration alone; but they will do better if fed a little meat from the first. If the grain ration is dry and sweet chicks can be fed a little green cut bone from the very first. Just a little thrown in so that each chick can get a morsel or two, will help wonderfully. If you ever dropped a bit of meat into a brooder full of two weeks' old chicks and saw them scramble and fight over it you won't doubt that they needed it.

Cooked meat cut up very fine, is safer and perhaps just as good. But it is costly. However, cost should be little considered in feeding chicks for the first few weeks, as a foundation can be then secured well worth many times cost.

A Beautiful Charity.
I know a woman who has been for two generations a successful teacher in a large city—so successful with her fashionable school that when she was ready to retire she had amassed a pretty little fortune. She thereupon purchased a beautiful home in the mountains, which during the summer months becomes the refuge and retreat of a fortunate group of guests. Most of the guests are women needing rest such as they could not otherwise afford to take from their busy city lives, says Good Housekeeping.

Few of whose needs she has learned in some cases by chance or in a newspaper item. Sometimes she asks former guests to give names of those who need the summer relaxation. Often she urges guests to bring with them some friend, thus doubling the pleasure to each. Sometimes on impulse, she invites a stranger whom she has seen but once, but whom, being a keen reader of character, she is not afraid to introduce to her home circle. School teachers, charity workers, librarians, students, grateful recipients of her hospitality, they are treated as the most honored personal friends; they are free to stay as long as they choose, to go when they feel best.

Each has her own hammock on the breezy piazza; each has her special needs carefully considered; each is free to make her own plans for the day, and is asked only to be prompt at meals. Every day there is a long, beautiful drive through the wonderful mountain scenery for any who care to go; the hostess herself never drives, but maintains a stable for her guests. Here is, indeed, a most strictly charity toward that class which is generally hardest to help—a blessing, instead of leaving a "fard" to perplex her executors.

The discovery on Wednesday, May 3, just at the fitting moment, of a fire on the shed of Mrs. J. W. Kimball's house, which started from a burning chimney, without doubt saved much of our little village from destruction.

Telephones and Forest Fires.

Telephone service is to state thousands of dollars a year to the State of Maine in preventing loss by forest fires. It supplements an extensive patrol and lookout system in the wilderness by which fire wardens are notified in time to gather experienced men and extinguish a blaze before it is under great headway.

The lines run through nearly every remote section of the State and to the tops of many of the highest mountains, where men are stationed all through the fire season to detect fires. They are continually watching the forests with telescopes and are able to see for many miles. When fire or smoke is observed they telephone at once to the nearest fire warden, who gathers a force, follows the direction given, and puts out the fire.

There are 25 mountain stations maintained by the forest commissioner. A man lives in each one for several months of every year. He is not only provided with a telescope, but has a range finder, detailed map of his own district and other instruments that will help him.

In addition to the protection afforded by these mountain stations there is an extensive patrol maintained in all parts of the woods. In the driest season from 100 to 150 men are constantly walking along the wood roads and water systems and following the trails. They often discover small fires which they extinguish without assistance. At no point, however, is it far to a telephone station. Nearly always the instrument is fastened to a tree, but frequently the patrolman has a portable instrument such as a line use.

This can be attached to a line at any point. About 70 boxes containing axes, shovels and other fire-fighting implements, aggregating in value $5000, have been distributed about the State at convenient points, mostly in lumber camps, which are used by the fire fighters.

But without the telephone this system of patrol would be of little or no value. One man alone in the wilderness could do but little in stopping a fire. The telephone, however, gives him the telephone considerable headway, but the telephone gathers a gang in the quickest possible time. Speaking of the value of the telephone service in the woods Forest Commissioner Edgar E. Ring in his report for 1910 says:

"The value of these lookouts thus connected by telephone has been many times demonstrated by the watchman communicating with a warden, giving him the direction and almost the exact location of some small fire. One or two men sent to investigate and put out the fire in its early stages accomplishes what hundreds or an army of men could not do after the fire has gained great headway and is being driven before big winds."

Not alone in the forest is a telephone of value in the case of a fire, but all through the forest communities and small villages. Fire fighters are called together quickly by means of the telephone whether the fire be buildings burning or any fire liable to get beyond control.

LOVELL CENTER.
Salmon fishing opened with a rush at Brown's camp on Lake Kezar, May 8th. Mrs. M. S. Flint of New York being high liner, landing a salmon weighing 13 pounds and 14 ounces, and another weighing 8 pounds and 11 ounces. Dr. W. H. Thayer of New Bedford, Mass., took one whose weight was 7 pounds and 14 ounces. Fish were also taken by E. W. Bartlett, B. E. Brown and H. D. Umbarger of Boston. There is every indication that the early spring salmon fishing in Kezar this year will eclipse that of any previous season.

Too Many Holidays.

"I am one of the many who can see no use whatever for the observing of April 19, Patriots' Day, as a holiday," said a well known business man.

"In the first place it does not represent anything. Fast Day was abolished because it had become obsolete and Patriots' Day was substituted. Upon the whole I believe that we have too many holidays, although there are some which should be retained and are enjoyed by all classes of people.

Fourth of July brings to mind the patriotism of those who fought and suffered that a government of the people by the people and for people might be established; Christmas indicates the promotion of the truths of Christianity; and Thanksgiving is given up to the home and the uniting of families. Such days as these are of use and ought to be encouraged.

Their is no observance of Patriots' Day except by base ball players and the public who enjoy that and other sports. It looks to me like a day wasted. The entire business operations of the State are interrupted; thousands of working people lose a day's pay, and the big manufacturing interests suffer by the stopping of the machinery for a day.

I cannot see one reason why such a holiday should be continued and I think the Legislature that will abolish it will do a commendable act. When one stops to think what the loss of this day means in money and valuable time to the people of the State he will wonder how any Legislature could have thought of establishing the holiday.—[Portland Express.

GOOD WORK

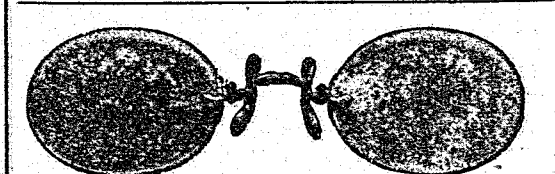

Done Daily in Norway. Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Norway still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

O. car I. P. P. P. Cottage street, Norway, Me., says: "Several years ago I began to suffer from an acute attack of kidney trouble. I had caught a severe cold which settled on my kidneys and brought on terrible pains in the small of my back. There seemed to be a congestion of my kidneys and it was only with great difficulty that I was able to pass the secretions. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and decided to try them. I procured a box from Stone's Drug Store. They helped me from the first and after taking the contents of a few boxes, I was cured. I have not had any trouble from my kidneys since. I am glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

My Old New England Hills.

As I watch the golden sunset slowly sinking in the west
When the burdened day is ended and the birds have gone to rest
Once again my thoughts go roaming to the hills
And I seem to hear an echo from my old New England hills

Western breezes cool my forehead, western breezes fan my hair,
But with all these soft caresses, cannot draw my thoughts from these hills
And as I close my eyelids, this fair vision comes to me;
Can you see in my childhood, the dear old elm tree?

And as children as we played in the cool and restful shade,
By its green branches made.
And the wild birds in the branches sing their song so loud and shrill,
That the notes seemed to echo, through the old New England hills.

Once again I roam the pasture,
Where the fragrant breezes blow,
Or I spy the first blue violet peeping from the winter snow,
And I linger by the brookside to where the water flows so clear and true.

Oh! what a place on earth is brighter than New England in the spring.
As I look up the wild flower in the tall New England grass,
Not to be cut down and withered, but keep struggling to the last;
But for each God has his purpose; let our restless hearts be still.

As we listen to the echo from my old New England hills
In my dreams I hear the ripple of the pond
And seem to hear dear mother waiting for her wanderer still;
But she will wait some day and will wait the sunshine play,
And the blue sky again,
Among the old New England hills.

The Hills of Maine.

O hills of Maine, fair hills of Maine,
Thy tumbling waters raise the strain
And with their silvery voices sing
The haunting echoes of my song.

O hills of Maine, cool hills of Maine,
Thou hast a heart that never grows old;
Thy lofty crests with aching pain
Invite the weary to recline.

O hills of Maine, dear hills of Maine,
When shall I tread thy paths again?
Once more a child with streaming locks
To frolic on thy rugged plain.

O hills of Maine, dear hills of Maine,
Thou hast a heart that never grows old;
Thy lofty crests with aching pain
Invite the weary to recline.

Our Feathered Friends.

The Bluebird's Color.

The friendship between the robin and the bluebird is accounted for in a legend. When the robin, filled with pity for his suffering lord, bore him drops of water as he hung upon the cross a little brown bird thought:

"Oh, I too love Him! Why can I not do something to ease his pain?"
So she made a cup out of a leaf, and, filling it with water, met the robin and gave it to him so that he would not have to fly so far as he returned for more of the cooling liquid. And when at last he came with the news that his Lord was dead she bathed his bleeding breast that was wounded by cruel thorns.

Then the master of the birds said to the little brown bird: "Because you loved the Lord and would have helped Him you shall henceforth wear a coat of blue." And as the little brown bird has ever since then been a little blue bird and is never far away from the robin when he comes in the spring. This will be something to think of when a bit of blue flies between you and the sun and you know Our Lady's bird has come.

The Gnatcatcher's Nest.

Of course we can all understand that the little gnatcatcher likes a warm snug nest, but why she would build it so very deep and narrow is a riddle and she will not tell us the answer. It must be very uncomfortable for her to sit there day after day with her tail cocked up high on one side and her sharp little bill just sticking out above the other edge. She seems to like it though, and when you go to look at her she is so well satisfied with the situation that if you want to see her pretty speckled eggs you gently untie her long tail feathers and see very unnecessarily hard in climbing it.

This nest was about forty feet up in a big oak tree which the very highest winds could not rock to any extent, so the deep cup shape of her little dwelling was not for fear of the eggs being shaken out.

Now this particular nest I found when it was just begun. The birds didn't mind me a bit but came right up with their mouths full of building stuff and actually sang with their mouths full of a feast which did not seem possible. Of course I thought I was a recognized acquaintance and when I pulled Mrs. Gnatcatcher's long tail just to hint that I would like to take a peep at her house treasures she got real rowdy. If she had been big enough I would have been well threatened, so I cut my visit very short.

The Surgeon Bird.

Two birds were building a nest under a study window. A gentleman sat in that study every day. He watched the birds. They were building the nest of clay. They brought round bits of wet clay in their bills. They stuck these bits upon the wall.

After they had worked busily for a while, would perch on a tree nearby. They would sit and look at the nest. Sometimes they would fly down and tear away all that they had built. Sometimes, a part of the nest would fall down. The bird would sit and think how to build it better.

Right in the middle of their work an accident happened. One of the birds stepped on a piece of broken glass. It cut her foot very badly.

But Mrs. Bird was a brave little body. She wished to keep on with her work. She did keep on until she was faint and sick, and could not fly up from the ground. Then she lay down. She closed her eyes. She looked very sick.

The other bird looked at her anxiously. Then he turned around and gave three loud, strange cries. Soon, several birds came flying about to see what was the matter.

A little surgeon bird came with them. He looked like the others, but he soon showed that he was the surgeon. He brought a bit of wet clay in his bill. He ground it fine with his own little beak. Then he spread it on the bird's sore, stiff foot, just as a surgeon spreads a plaster. Next, he took in his bill a long green cornstalk which lay near. He flew up on a tin water-pipe under the window. One end of the cornstalk was near the lame bird. She understood what to do. She took hold of it with bill, and helped herself up on the water-pipe, too. Then the surgeon bird helped her into the half built nest.

Poor Mrs. Bird! It was very bad to be sick, and to move into a half built house.

What do you suppose the little surgeon did next? He went to work and helped Mrs. Bird finish the nest, then he flew home.

Could the gentleman in the study have been kinder or wiser than that little bird?

Money Back.

Frank Kimball, Prop. of the Noyes Drug Store, gives a Partisan Sage to Banish Dandruff.

And also to stop that bald spot from growing larger; to stop itching scalp and falling hair, or money back. Partisan Sage will drive every particle of dandruff from your scalp, because it penetrates into the scalp and kills the dandruff germs which are the cause of all hair diseases.

It is a most beneficial hair dressing and hair beautifier, not sticky or greasy, and is used by women of refinement the country over. Large bottle 50 cents.

Partisan Sage is the best hair tonic and hair grower I ever used. It is a grand dandruff cure and scalp cleaner, and also cures itching scalp. Mrs. Lotie Davis, R. F. D. No. 7, Flint, Mich., June 20, 1910.

The First Feeding of Chicks.
When a chick is first hatched it is about as soft and mushy a piece of animal life as can be imagined. Its bones and flesh are merely a bag to hold the yolk of the egg from which it came. This yolk is inclosed whole in the chick's interior and furnishes the necessary food for the first few days. It doesn't need any other food, indeed other food is likely to do it harm. And until this yolk has been entirely dissolved and assimilated by the chick's system, it is better that it have nothing to eat.
These few days when the yolk is being digested should be a time of preparation for the time when the chicks will need other food. For this purpose there is one thing absolutely essential and that is sand. Put a newly hatched chick out on the ground and before it can run it will be found picking at the coarse grains of sand and small pebbles. This is not due to hunger, for it is not hungry;
but it is instinct to prepare its grinding apparatus and get it in working order.
Some breeders prefer keeping all water away from all newly hatched chicks, believing it produces bowels derangements; but this is very doubtful.
Many breeders allow the chicks water from the start, putting it before them along with sand and small gravel as soon as they are hatched. We like this plan best. They will drink very little water, some of them refusing it entirely, so that it can do them no harm. Placed on a sandy floor or soil with water before them for a couple of days and then a light feed has always started them off lively and strong for us and given them
the go that they need.

When there are so many excellent prepared chick feeds on the market, sold at small cost, it is a real trouble to per-pare food for young chicks. These chick feeds can be bought in the neighborhood of two cents a pound and as the chicks consume very little of them
the cost is a trifling matter, unless you raise a great many chicks. In this event, you will find them so satisfactory that you will be sure to use one. Besides the commercial chick foods are dry and composed of small grains which do not spoil if the chicks should overlook them.
Indeed, it is all the better to mix some of it in the sand on which the chicks are fed, and in this way the youngsters will learn to scratch for them.
And exercise is the life of anything.
If you can't get a good chick food,
then raw oatmeal will be found excellent.
Sometimes your grocer will have a lot which he will sell you for a roll in a bag, and as this is unsalable he will let you have it for a trifle. The chicks relish it great, and as there is no husk on it,
it will answer well.

Stale bread crumbs, where you have only a few chicks, are as good as anything. They contain a little salt which is an advantage, and if they are dry enough to crumble when rolled in your hands they can be fed in that way. If they are too dry, a little water poured over them—not much, but just enough to moisten them—is all right. Dip them once in water and set them aside till the moisture penetrates through a d through.
This isn't so good as feeding it dry, but it will do.

Don't feed raw dough or rough mash such as you feed larger chicks. Raw dough sours in the crop and brings on all sorts of bowel troubles. If you want to feed this stuff, cook it well beforehand. Well means through and through —not just a hard crust on the outside and the middle a soggy, wet mass; this is as bad as feeding it raw.
Chicks will do well for a while on a grain ration, but they will do better if fed a little meat from the first.
If the grain ration is dry and sweet chicks can be fed a little green out bene from the very first. Just a little thrown in so that each chick can get a morsel or two, will help wonderfully. If you ever dropped a bit of meat into a brooder full of two weeks' old chicks and saw them scramble and fight over it you won't doubt that it needed it.
Cooked meat out up very fine, is safer and perhaps just as good. But it is costly. However, cost should be little considered in feeding chicks for the first few weeks, as a foundation can be then secured well worth many times cost.

A Beautiful Charity.
I know a woman who has been for two generations a successful teacher in a large city—so successful with her fashionable school that when she was ready to retire
she had amassed a pretty little fortune.
She thereupon purchased a beautiful home in the mountains, which during the summer months becomes the refuge and retreat of a fortunate group of guests.
Most of the guests are women needing rest such as they could not otherwise find to take from their busy city lives, says Good Housekeeping.
Few of these guests have learned in some casual fashion—by chance or in a newspaper item. Sometimes she asks former guests to give names of those who need the summer relaxation. Often she urges guests to bring with them
some friend, thus doubling the pleasure to each. Sometimes on impulse, she invites a stranger whom she has seen but once, but whom, being a keen reader of character, she is not afraid to introduce to her home circle. School teachers, charity workers, librarians, students, grateful recipients of her hospitality, they are treated as the most honored personal friends; they are free to stay as long as they choose, to go when they feel best.
Each has her own hammock on the breezy piazza; each has her special needs carefully considered; each is free to make her own plans for the day, and is asked only to be prompt at meals.
Every day there is a long, beautiful drive through the wonderful mountain scenery for who cares to go; the hostess herself never drives, but maintains a steady pace for her guests. Here, indeed, a most sisterly charity toward that class which is generally hardest to help—a blessing, instead of leaving a
"furd" to perplex her executors.

Telephones and Forest Fires.
Telephone service is worth thousands of dollars a year to the State of Maine in preventing loss by forest fires. It supplements an extensive patrol and lookout system in the wilderness by which fire wardens are notified in time to gather experienced men and extinguish a blaze before it is under great headway.
The fires run through nearly every remote section of the State and to the tops of many of the highest mountains, where men are stationed all through the dry season to detect fires. They are continually watching the forests with telescopes and are able to see for many miles. When fire or smoke is observed they telephone at once to the nearest fire warden, who gathers a force, follows
the direction given, and puts out the fire.

There are 25 mountain stations maintained by the forest commissioner. A man lives in each one for several months of every year. He is not only provided with a telescope, but has a range finder, detailed map of his own district and other instruments that will help him.
In addition to the protection afforded by these mountain stations there is an extensive patrol maintained in all parts of the woods. In the driest season from 100 to 150 men are constantly walking along the wood roads and water systems and following the trails. They often discover small fires which they extinguish without assistance. At no point, however, is it far to a telephone station. Nearly always the instrument is fastened to a tree, but frequently the patrolman has a portable instrument such as a liemoen use. This can be attached to the line at any point.

About 75 boxes containing axes,
shovels and other fire-fighting implements, aggregating in value $5000, have been distributed about the State at convenient points, mostly in lumber camps, which are used by the fire fighters.
But without the telephone this system of patrol would be of little or no value. One man alone in the wilderness could do but little in stopping a fire.
The telephone, however, has been distributed about the State at the exact location of some small fire. One or two men sent to investigate and put out the fire in its early stages accomplishes what hundreds or an army of men could not do after the fire has gained great headway and is being driven before high winds.

Not alone in the forest is a telephone of value in the case of a fire, but all through the forest communities and small villages. Fire fighters are called together quickly by means of the telephone whether the fire be buildings burning or any fire liable to get beyond control.

LOVELL CENTER.
Salmon fishing opened with a rush at Brown's camp on Lake Kezar, May 6th.
Mrs. M. S. Flint of New York being high liner, landing a salmon weighing 13 pounds and 14 ounces, and another weighing 8 pounds and 11 ounces. Dr.
W. H. Thayer of New Bedford, Mass., took one weighing 7 pounds and 7 pounds and 14 ounces. Fish were also taken by E. W. Bartlett, B. E. Brown and H. D.
Umbaceter of Boston. There is every indication that the early spring salmon fishing in Kezar this year will eclipse that of any previous season.

Too Many Holidays.
"I am one of the many who can see no use whatever for the observing of April 19, Patriots' Day, as a holiday," said a well known business man.
"In the first place it does not represent anything. Fast Day was abolished because it had become obsolete and Patriots' Day was substituted. Upon the whole I believe that we have too many holidays, although there are some which should be retained and are enjoyed by all classes of people.
Fourth of July brings to mind the patriotism of those who fought and suffered that a government of the people by the people and for people might be established; Christmas indicates the promotion of the truth of Christianity;
and Thanksgiving is given up to the home and the uniting of families. Such days as these are of use and ought to be encouraged.
There is no observance of Patriots' Day except by base ball players and the public who enjoy that and other sports.
It looks to me like a day wasted. The entire business operations of the State are interrupted; thousands of working people lose a day's pay, and the big manufacturing interests suffer by the stopping of the machinery for a day.
I cannot see one reason why such a holiday should be continued and I think the Legislature that will abolish it will do a commendable act. When one stops to think what the loss of this day means in money and valuable time to the people of the State he will wonder how any Legislature could have thought of establishing the holiday.—[Portland Express.]

"No License" Movement Organization.
In September the voters will be called upon to decide between license and no license, and the question must be decided by popular vote. An organization has been formed throughout the state to make a strong canvas in favor of the prohibitory law. There is no party measure connected with it, and it resolves itself into a question of license or no license.

Catarrh Vanishes.
Relief in Two Minutes with Wonderful
Money Back Cure.
Go to Noyes Drug Store to-day, and tell him you want a Hyomei outfit (pronounce it High-o-me).
Open the box and inside you will find a bottle of HYOMEI and a hard rubber inhaler.
Inside this inhaler which opens at both ends you will find some antiseptic gauze.
Pour a few drops of Hyomei into the inhaler and saturate the gauze. Then with both ends of the inhaler open, breathe HYOMEI, and the destruction of pernicious catarrh germs begins at once.
You can breathe HYOMEI through either the nose or mouth. Read the directions.
Hyomei is made from Australian Eucalyptus and mixed with other important antiseptics, and the greatest, most sensible and pleasant treatment for catarrh ever known.
Just breathe it; no stomach dosing;
no sprays or douches, this great antiseptic air soothes the mucous membrane and kills all germs.
Complete outfit, $1.00. Extra bottle if afterward needed, only 50c. Money back from Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, or leading druggists everywhere if it doesn't cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup and sore throat.
To break up cold in head or chest in a few minutes, pour a teaspoonful of Hyomei into a bowl of boiling water;
cover head and bowl with towel and breathe the vapor. 20c22

On the death of Brother James Flint who died April 10th.
WHEREAS, in view of the loss we have sustained by the death of Brother James Flint, still heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him, therefore be it

Supreme Judicial Court.

In the Mike Bennett nuisance case, the jury reported a disagreement. B. Belski was convicted on a similar charge; also Peter Bouchard on a nuisance indictment. John Wills on one indictment for nuisance pleaded guilty; another, charging a like offense was not pressed. The appealed case for illegal transportation of intoxicating liquors was also not pressed but on the one for keeping and depositing liquors, the judgment of the lower court was affirmed to wit: $100 fine and costs taxed at $6.82 and to 60 days in jail. In default of payment to 60 days additional imprisonment.
For illegal transportation Jesse Barker's appealed case was not pressed on payment of $57.05.
The indictment against George Bradley and Wilfred Willett for larceny was not pressed by advice of the court. They were convicted on an indictment for breaking and entering. The same parties with Willie Provost and Gus Provost were arraigned for breaking and entering the summer cottage of Henry Keenau at Adamstown township in the northern part of this county, in the lake region. Bradley and Willett pleaded guilty. The two Provost boys not guilty. Upon trial they were convicted of breaking and entering.

75th Anniversary.

Horatio H. Warren of West Lynn, Mass., a veteran of the Civil War, celebrated Tuesday, May 9, in a quiet manner his 75th birthday anniversary, at his pleasant home, 8 Astor street. Mr. Warren was born in Paris and is the son of Rev. James Warren, an old-time Methodist circuit rider. He learned his trade as machinist in Andover, and later removed to Rochester, where he resided when the war broke out.

He enlisted in the Thirtieth New Hampshire regiment, and was made sergeant of Co. B. Two of his brothers were in the Civil War. Osborne Warren was in the Ninth New Hampshire and Wilbur F. Warren in the First New Hampshire cavalry. Osborne was afterward postmaster of Rochester, N. H., and Wilbur was later a mail agent between Boston and Lancaster. N. H. Osborne Warren married Luella Brown of Norway.

Mr. Warren served three years in the army and took part in all of the engagements of the Army of the Potomac. He was in 11 battles and was wounded seven times, quite severely at Gettysburg. He served as a member of the House of Representatives in New Hampshire in 1887-1888.

He is a member of Granite lodge Masons, of Salem Falls, N. H.; a member of Post 5, G. A. R., and one of the trustees of the G. A. R. street Methodist church. He is the last of a family of six children, five sons and one daughter. He has a wife and one daughter, Grace Ethel Warren, who is well known for her musical ability.

Mr. Warren, although he has reached three-fourths of a century, is still at work at his trade of machinist, and keeps up with the men of younger years.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Eleanor Cash found strawberry blossoms plentiful, Saturday. But as yet we have not seen native strawberries.

The first thunder shower of the season was in evidence Thursday evening, and although the lightning flashed and the wind blew a gale only a few drops of water fell in this vicinity.

Harold Cash brought us a nice large bouquet of dandelion blossoms and ferns Saturday morning. The little fellow picked them near the shoe factory and requested mention be made of them in the paper.

Mrs. George W. Doughty of West Paris presented the ADVERTISER with a Pekin duck's egg, Saturday, that weighs 4½ ounces and measures 6½ inches around, 8½ inches around end from end and is a considerable larger than an ordinary egg.

Alice Kenerson was out enjoying the spring beauties Saturday, and she found a goodly number of white violets. The little people are anxious that the ADVERTISER should see these beautiful things that interest them. She could not come to see us that morning, so she found a boy friend who brought the violets to the office for her and told us about them.

DO GHOSTS HAUNT SWAMPS?

No, Neven. It is foolish to fear fanciful evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bays, and lowlands. These are the malaria swamps that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles, and induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell of Luoma, N. C., "and I've had fine health ever since." Use this safe, sure remedy. Only 50c at The Norway Drug Store.

Same Thing in Maine.

Maine and Massachusetts legislatures seem to be very much alike.

The reasons given by the Brockton Enterprise for long sessions might with equal propriety be said of Maine: "We are a great people in this State for trying to reform everything by law. We want laws passed to correct some little bother in a little section of a little town. We legislate for people and for animals and birds and fish. Somebody wants about everything controlled by somebody, usually by the politician of his friends."

We have at the State House committee hearings where hours are taken up in hearing three or four people on little subjects that don't interest at the outside 50 people in the whole state."

Ever since the coming of this quotation from the Brockton Enterprise might with equal force be applied to our Legislature that has met in Maine for the last ten years. The fault of the long sessions is not all with the Legislature, it is with the would-be reformers and cranks who seek everything under the sun to be remedied by legislative action.

Postal Ruling Called Absurd.

A peculiar ruling of the postoffice department, at the expense of the public, has just come to light through demand made on the postmaster at St. Louis for an explanation of the failure of much of the mail to reach its destination. The postal regulations, says the postmaster, prohibit the newspapers, which are mailed by the general public, to take the rate of one cent for each four ounces. "We have frequent complaints," the postmaster explained, "from patrons who tell us that Sunday papers are mailed and therefore they can not be carried under the one-cent-for-four-ounces rate. Parts of newspapers may be sent, however, at one cent for two ounces." The postmaster was not disposed to say whether or not he considered it reasonable that a whole newspaper should be carried for a smaller rate than part of a newspaper. In business circles the ruling is considered ridiculously technical.

Fretting.

There is one sin which is everywhere underestimated and quite too often much overlooked in valuation of character. It is the sin of fretting. It is as common as air, as speech; so common that unless it rises above its usual monotony we do not even observe it.

Watch any creature coming together of people and see how many minutes it will be before somebody frets; that is, makes more or less complaining statements of something or other which most probably every one in the room, or in the car, or on the street corner, it may be, knew before, and which probably nobody can help.

Why say anything about it? It is cold, it is hot, it is dry; somebody has broken an appointment, ill-cooked a meal; stupidity or bad faith has resulted in discomfort. There are plenty of things to fret about.

It is simply astonishing how many annoyances may be found in the course of every day's living, even at the simplest, if one only keeps a sharp eye out on that side of things. Ever H. H. says we are prone to trouble "as sparks fly upward."

But even to the sparks that fly upward in the blackest smoke, there is the blue sky above, and the less time they waste on the road, the sooner they will reach it. Fretting is all "time wasted on the road."

The advantages to be reaped from putting in a small garden at this season of the year may not be appreciated now, but when August comes around, fresh vegetables from one's own garden are appreciated, and the small expenditure of money and time necessary for such a luxury are nothing when compared to eating fresh vegetables of our own raising.

Health For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

—In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Coloma, Wisconsin. — "For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and can not thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — Mrs. John Wentland, K. F. D., No. 3, Box 60, Coloma, Wisconsin.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Murder at Rumford.

Two hours after she had been shot four times in the breast by a revolver held at close range by her husband, according to his confession to the officers when he gave himself into custody, Mrs. Joe Bill died Thursday, May 11, at her home on the highest point of settled land in Virginia, a part of Rumford Falls.

While she was dying, there was in the room or close by at one time two priests, a physician, an undertaker, a coroner, deputy sheriff, the chief of police and two police who had been summoned when Joe Bill created a sensation by announcing that he had killed his wife.

Before she died, according to the officers, she was conscious and told them that her husband shot her. She was started when Joe Bill created a sensation by announcing that he had killed his wife. She was found under a sink in the wood shed. Joe Bill was locked in a cell at the police station and at first could say little except to repeat: "It all seems like a dream."

In line with the recent policy of utilizing fully the state normal school faculty these rural school institutes will be held at Gorham, Farmington, Castine and Machias from July 10 to 21 and at Fort Kent from July 24 to August 4. At Presque Isle a regular six weeks' term of normal school with credit toward graduation is to be held. The only expense to teachers in connection with these institutes is for travel and for board.

Supreme Judicial Court.

Emery, Judge, Presiding.

In the Klowas-Bisbee case, the plaintiff and several of his witnesses, who were Lithuanians, testified through an interpreter, and the evidence was brought out slowly. Several surgeons were in attendance to testify for the defendants as experts. The surgeons called the injury that the plaintiff received a "Pott's" fracture, and Dr. Alfred King and Dr. Walter E. Tobie, as experts learned, explained by an anatomical specimen, for the defendants, what such a breaking of the leg bones at and near the ankle meant. They testified that such a fracture was treated at first the members stood nine for the defendants and three for the plaintiff.

The jury in the Klowas-Bisbee and McCarthy damage suit reported a verdict for the defendants. It is understood that the members stood nine for the defendants and three for the plaintiff.

The appealed criminal action State against Warren Spencer Commorant of Rumford for keeping and depositing intoxicating liquors intended for unlawful sale was tried Friday morning, the charge being that the large quantity of liquors seized by the officers, but not claimed by Spencer, was intended for his own private use. He was defended by Capt. L. W. Blanchard. The county attorney presented the State's side of the case and made a fine plea. The charge of the court was clear and impartial and generally regarded as favorable to the prosecution. The second jury before which the case was tried reported a verdict for the defendant and he was discharged.

Charles Starnis, alias Mike Bennett, a Lithuanian, was tried before the first jury, on the indictment against him for maintaining a nuisance at his home in Rumford Falls village. The indictment was found at the October term, 1910. He and nearly all the witnesses testified through an interpreter, John Wikout, and they occupied nearly all the afternoon.

When to Plant Trees.

The right time to plant trees is when the frost is out of the ground and the trees begin to bud. We do not believe in fall planting, however much nurserymen may urge it. The kind of day on which you plant is second in importance only to the season. If you have but a small amount of planting to do, don't plant on a hot day or a windy day, but on a cool damp day. When you are planting take time to do it right. Don't stick the roots of your trees down into a rough or clumpy soil, but prepare a hole for the tree as you would for wheat or corn. When your trees come, if you do not have time to plant them, there is no particular hurry. Heel them in by simply burying the roots deep in fresh earth. Plant two or three inches deeper than they stood in the nursery. If your ground is in good condition, compact it around the roots of the trees pretty firmly. If your land is thoroughly soaked with water, just wait until it is in good condition; and in any case leave two or three inches of the surface loose, so as to form a dirt mulch. By all means plant trees, however, if you expect to need fence posts some years from now, if you are not fully supplied with fruit, or if your farm is not properly grown. Don't plant poor trees in countries where you can grow good ones. Plant catalpa for fence posts, if you can get the right species. Ash will grow almost all over our territory. South of the central line of Iowa we have the Russian mulberry for windbreaks and for a future supply of fuel. If you want not anything else plant white or golden willow or cottonwood. Don't plant box elder, unless you are in a section of the country where nothing else will stand the winds; but plant trees, if you think you will have any use for them ten years from now.

Nursing as a Career.

A World Wide Calling. Free Training Provided.

It is said that nursing is one of the most inviting fields of human service and that its financial return surpasses any other occupation open to young women. It develops all the native graces of womanhood and leads the way to positions of trust and influence. The demand for more nurses is a world wide call.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses, located in Philadelphia, Pa., has undertaken to meet this demand by offering free scholarships to young women in all parts of the country. Room, board, laundering, incidental expenses, special financial assistance and railroad fare home on completion of the course are provided. Length of Course two years. Also Special Short Course and a Home Study Course for those who must quickly prepare for self-support.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses is a benevolent institution conducted without hope of gain or profit in the interest of ambitious young women. Readers of this paper can get full information by writing the school at once.

FROM THE TROPICS TO HEAL US.

Cedron Seed Plant.
In Central America many natives are gathering the seeds of this plant, Cedron Seed, a rare medicine that has valuable curative powers. But few drug stores carry this seed, owing to the high cost of the article.

This country is a large consumer of this costly seed because it enters into the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna, sold the world over.

FRYEBURG.

Praise for Fryeburg Artist.

An artist exhibiting for the first time in the spring exhibition of the Portland Society of Art is Benjamin T. Newman of Fryeburg, six of whose pictures are shown: Mother and Child, (41) a life size portrait, beautiful in arrangement, shows fine qualities of painting. The rendering of the hands of both mother and child, the sun-touched head of the little one, and the broadly simple treatment of the shadowed portions of the whole figure, awaken keen admiration. The Merry Girl, (53) has special charm not only for the thorough construction of the figure, not even for the beauty of the tenderly painted head and its exquisite relation to its background of sherry sky, but beyond these for its intangible suggestion of tender human sympathy. There is beauty of the most searching sort in the painting of the girl's head.

Another painting of fine quality is Winter Twilight, (43) a small landscape, beautiful in treatment and color, pervaded with the poetry of night descending in cool stillness upon winter woods and lake. Other paintings of Mr. Newman are Study of Sheep, (71), Study of Kittens (52) and Winter Birch (70).

Mr. Carleton had been dead several years ago, leaving one son, Ray Hastings Carleton, who one year later followed his mother to the other world. BUCKFIELD.

William Irish.

William Irish died at his home on High street, May 10th. He had had a lingering illness of kidney trouble and other complications.

Mr. Irish was born in Hartford, Aug. 19, 1823, and was one of nine children of Stephen and Mary (Blind) Irish, who were among the settlers of the town. In 1838 he married Sybil Clementine Keene of Sumner, who died in 1857, leaving one son, Herbert F., a farmer of Buckfield.

In 1859, he married Mary Ann Ford of Sumner, who survives him. They had three children, Sybil C., who died at five years of age; Clara H., who married G. E. Marston of Auburn; and Willie D., who died fourteen years ago. Mr. Irish was a farmer. He cleared the farm at Buckfield now owned and occupied by Frank Chase. He afterwards moved to Hartford, where he lived until 12 years ago, when failing health compelled him to give up the care of the farm, and he purchased the residence in Buckfield, where he has since lived.

Interment was in the family lot in the village cemetery.

When a Girl is Extravagant.

If you are extravagant, you are a spendthrift. The two words mean pretty nearly the same thing. The girl who spends more than she earns or more than her father can afford to give her, the girl who has holes in her pocket through which slip away the small coins that make dollars, the girl, in short, who can never deny herself a box of bonbons, a bunch of violets, a new magazine, a bit of jewelry or any other luxury irrespective of her income, is an extravagant girl, writes Margaret Sangster.

There is no particular merit in saving money simply that it may be hoarded. Money should be judiciously used, should be, if possible, invested so that it will bring its owner an equal interest; it should be expended so that it will give comfort to one's dear ones, and, on the whole, it should be regarded as a thing held in trust to be rightly disposed of.

Prince Albert gave his daughter, who afterward became Princess of Germany and the mother of the reigning Kaiser, an excellent bit of advice when she was a girl at home in the palace where Queen Victoria lived and ruled, "Always have a margin. Never spend your whole allowance." This was the counsel of a wise, frugal and far-seeing prince.

There is another aspect of extravagance which should be presented to the mind of the average girl much oftener and far more strongly than is usually the case. Girls thoughtlessly permit young men to spend more money than the ordinary youth on salary or beginning business can comfortably spare.

Of course, it is easy to criticize a young fellow who shrinks from becoming stingy, and the Spartan spectator may covetously criticize him for his folly. "If he be a youth at college drawing upon the means of parents at home during his days for preparation for life, he is the more to be blamed. Many a story could be written, a story pitifully tragic, about the self-denials of home people who from day to day deprive themselves of necessary comforts that the son at the university may be unhampered in gaining his education."

The son, admiring a beautiful girl and wishing to win her at all hazards, contracts debts which he cannot pay, brings sorrow on the hearts of his parents and plants for himself a future harvest of shame and self-scorn. In this matter girls should be wiser than boys. They should let it be seen plainly and literally that they prefer honest simplicity to lavish extravagance, and the girl who loves a man should decline to be a millstone, so to speak, about his neck, in the days of betrothal or of previous courtship.

Just before Artemus Ward's death Robertson poured out some medicine and offered it to the sick man, who said, "My dear Tom, I won't take any more of that horrible stuff."

Robertson urged him to swallow the mixture, saying, "Do, now—there's a dear fellow—for my sake. You know I would do anything for you."

"Would you?" said Ward feebly, grasping his friend's hand for the last time.

"I would indeed," said Robertson. "Then you take it."

Ward passed away a few hours afterward.

TRUE'S ELIXIR

For over 60 years this old remedy has been known and used by the American public. It is the best remedy for old and young. Relieves Constipation, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, and cures all worms. Pleasant to take. Children like it. At All Druggists 35c., 50c., $1.00.

Safe Treatment for Headache.

The rational treatment for headache is to get at the cause, if possible, and remove it. Headache is only a symptom of trouble somewhere in the system, and dosing with tablets or powders containing acetanilid or other coal-tar derivatives which stop the pain temporarily but weaken the heart, is at once unsafe and unwise. The headache may come from your eyes, then a good oculist can help you at once with proper eyeglasses; but if it comes with furred tongue, loss of appetite, nausea, and constipation, it is usually the result of disordered digestion, or torpid liver, and one or two doses of L. F. Atwood's Medicine will speedily help you by carrying off impurities and restoring the clogged digestive organs to their normal activity. In using this old reliable remedy, you take no chances of weakening the heart's action.

It has a record of sixty years as a safe headache remedy. The "L. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

WEST PARIS.

A Heroic Lad and Two Aired and Level-headed Women.
Forest and other fires are plenty all around. Three or four have been near here; one a grass fire on the farm owned by S. I. Wheeler; another a few miles above here in the woods near the G. T. Ry., supposed to have caught by a spark from the engine.

A lamp explosion in Charles Currier's shop came near being serious. Mr. Currier was at the stable and his son Merton, a lad of a dozen years, was left in charge, who noticed that the lamp fluted and acted strangely. He took the lamp down and started out of doors with it, when it exploded in his hand outside on the steps and caught fire. He called for help and several men rushed to his aid. The fire was quickly extinguished only by pulling the wooden steps into the street, making further alarm unnecessary.

Another grass fire was started beside the wooden sidewalk on the hill across the river beside the garden lot belonging to S. I. White's residence. The fire started about 10 o'clock. It was caused by a smoker who carelessly threw down a lighted match while passing.
Mrs. While was working in her front room when looking out to discover the cause of the noise, saw the fire started. She went to the window and from the drug store by telephone and then hurried to get a bucket of water and a broom. Mrs. F. H. Hill, the nearest neighbor also carried out a pail of water and a broom, and they with more water soon extinguished the fire.
If the fire had become much larger before being discovered or happened in the night it would have resulted seriously.

Great care should be taken by all, in such a dry time as this, especially those who have to go to the woods to be sure that they are wholly blown out before casting them away.
A short time ago there was a big grass fire beside the track near Snows Falls where considerable fighting had to be done to extinguish it.

A few interested people from North and West Paris met at the Grange hall Monday evening to make arrangements and choose a committee for the observance of Memorial Day in this part of the town. It was decided to have the usual exercises appropriate for the day. The North Paris, Fiddletown, Forbes and Porter district schools are to be invited to unite with this school and each teacher to plan something to help out the general program. The children are asked to meet at nine o'clock at the Grange hall, Tuesday morning May 30 and form for a march to the cemetery where services will be held and the graves decorated, then they will return to the hall for a picnic dinner. The program for the afternoon will consist of addresses by the various pastors, exercises and recitations by the children and music. The plan is an interesting one and it is hoped that all the north part of the town will feel a responsibility in making the National Memorial Day an impressive and instructive one.

Miss Prim has a class of 20 kindergarten scholars, who are all adults characterized by small children, and is very funny.

NORTH WATERFORD.

Mrs. Hannah G. Davis.
Among recent deaths of natives of Oxford county, was that of one notably endowed with mental gifts and remarkable physical powers, who lived to pass her eighty-ninth birthday anniversary.

This person was Mrs. Hannah G. Davis, a native and many years' resident of North Waterford. She was the daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth H. (Patterson - Coffin) Proctor, and was the last of a large family of children, nearly all of whom adopted a professional life.

Among her relatives there was the Rev. Ezekiel Coffin, a prominent Universalist minister whose voice was occasionally heard, in the old days, in a Norway pulpit.
After teaching for quite a number of years in the public schools of Oxford and Cumberland counties, Miss Proctor became the second wife of Eben Davis, Esq., a shipbuilder and legislator, of that now popular seaside resort, Annisquam, Gloucester, Mass., where she henceforth dwelt until her death.

Mrs. Davis took a lively interest in social affairs, and was wont to attend society gatherings and public entertainments until her health compelled her to give up all pleasure of that nature. She was a lady of the old school, being ever kind and courteous to all her friends.
